Two Wythe Veterans Among Those That Faced Cigar Box With Deadly Bit of Paper.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch,)
WYTHEVILLE, VA., April 2.-Most any Saturday or court day there can be seen on the streets of Wytheville two simple and retiring in their tastes and habits, who were called upon to undergo as trying ordeal during the war between the States as any soldier on either side of that memorable struggle.

At the several Confederate reuniors which have taken place in Wytheville during the past three years it has been the pleasure and privilege of these tillers of the soil to take an humble and unpretentious part in the exercises as "feet envalrymen," and it was by a mere accident that your correspondent learned of the notable event which ha narrates below.

The old Confeds to whom I refer are Mr. Joseph Headrick, as I have stated,

The old Confeds to whom I refer are Mr. Joseph Headrick, as I have stated, a farmer, who lives on and owns a comfortable country estate lying on the waters of Stony Fork, nine miles west of Wytheyille, and Mr. Jackson Grubb, likew'so the possessor of a goodly country home a few miles south of town.

A hasiy conference of the Federal officers was held, and they determined upon retaliation; so one hundred of the four hundred Confederate prisoners in their chirage were marched out, and Joseph Headrick was not quite so fortunate in that he was among the first to draw and he drew a white ballot, which eventually meant life, home and loved ones in old Virginia again.

Joseph Headrick was not quite so fortunate in that he was among the first to draw and he drew a white ballot algorithm of the confederate prisoners of the federal officers accompanied them, and without any explanation the prisoners of war were lined up. The three Federal officers cook position at a short distance, one of them holding above his head a cigar box, while the other two acted as guards. The confederate solders were then commanded to march one by one between the guards and by the one holding the cigar box, and draw the fullest terms of war each of the commanded to march one by one between the guards and by the one holding the cigar box, and draw the father of seven datus and that he was among the first to draw and he drew a diaughters.
